Many of us parents spend a lot of time looking for a skill, a technique, a strategy that will make our children do what we tell them to do-- basically, behave. There are indeed many books that tell us how to parent so that our children magically listen better. Of course, there is plenty of good in all these approaches; unfortunately, they often don't work in your home. Why is that? This workshop will pinpoint ways that will make all the magic happen. Join us to learn about The Healing Art of Showing Up.
